WWW.Militarybookshop.Co.UK. Hardcover. Book Condition: New. Hardcover. 696 pages. Dimensions: 9.7in. x 6.8in. x 1.7in. Much has been written in the West on the history of the Soviet space program but few Westerners have read direct first-hand accounts of the men and women who were behind the many Russian accomplishments in exploring space. The memoirs of Academician Boris Chertok, translated from the original Russian, fills that gap. This official NASA history series document has been converted for accurate flowing-text e-book format reproduction. In this Volume 2, Chertok takes up the story with the development of the world's first intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) and ends with the launch of Sputnik and the early Moon, Mars, and Venus probes. His engaging accounts of these dramatic and historic years reveal repeated failures, technical problems, and governmental struggles that marked the opening of the space race in the Soviet Union. An extensive technical discussion provides new details about the tragic Nedelin Disaster in October 1960 which killed over 100 workers attempting to launch an ICBM. Chertok calls it most horrific disaster in the history of missile and space technology. Contents: Three New Technologies, Three State Committees The Return From Usedom Island to Gorodomlya Island Institute No. 88 and Director Gonor The Alliance with Science Department U Face to Face with the R-1 Missile The R-1 Missile Goes Into Service Managers and Colleagues NII-885 and Other Institutes Air Defense Missiles Flying by the Stars Missiles of the Cold Wars First Decade On the First Missile Submarine Prologue to Nuclear Strategy The Seven Problems of the R-7 Missile The Birth of a Firing Range 15 May 1957 No Time for a Breather Mysterious Illness Breakthrough into Space Flight-Development Tests Continue The R-7 Goes into Service From Tyuratam to the Hawaiian Islands and Beyond Lunar Assault Back at RNII...
