Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Louisiana: A Pageant of Yesterday and to-Day Prologue. (A trumpet is heard. Curtains are slightly drawn. - Enter Herald.) Herald: Good greetings, friends! Glad greetings, one and all! Haste Ye! Make ready for our noble queen, The Fair Louisiana, she who reigns O'er more than half the mighty new-found world. How tender is her sway, and yet how strong, To hold within her hands, like children's toys, The splendid regions of the northern lakes, The mystic, dreamy, soulful south-land far. See, how she comes with Springtime in her tread, Upspringing neath her feet the clover sweet, Upon her head the starry jessamine - Plucked from the whiteness of the Milky Way. Magnolias are her cheeks, and her rich lips The ripened seed of all Magnolia blooms; Wood-brown her eyes with depths as calm and clear As gentle bayous overhung by trees. France wears her as a jewel in her crown, Brave, noble France! And yet in years to come France must resign this gem, must yield this gift To that strong mother of a younger race, America, born of the giant might Of all the mingled forces of the world. Yet let us not O'er-vision you with dreams. Louisiana comes; greet her with joy! About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
