MAKING SENSE OF RELIGION (PAPERBACK)

Wipf Stock Publishers, United States, 2014. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .We live in a world with many religious traditions. People in these traditions believe that their religious view of life embodies what is important, true, and real. Their religious views of life, however, differ significantly. They can't all capture equally what is important, true, and real. This book seeks to unravel this dilemma. It rejects two approaches to address the problem: First, the view that one religious view of life is the absolute, unique product of revelation, and second, the view that the foundation of all religious views of life is the same--that they are all the product of religious experiences of the same religious ultimate. This ultimate is sometimes called Being-Itself, sometimes the One. Under the second view, the differences between them are considered cultural. Making Sense of Religion shows us that religious views of life are often radically different, and these differences are not just cultural, but substantive. This book explores the hidden logic beneath the surface of religious views of life that holds them together and helps explain their differences. What follows is a way presenting, comparing, defending, and criticizing religious views of life. This is a type of theology. This book argues sequentially for a fresh view of religion and religions based on their views of life, whose concerns share ground with secular views of life. It shows how views of happiness, values, human nature, ritual, authority, and the Ultimate mutually adapt. Corliss thus grounds humanistic, undogmatic theologies while avoiding subjectivist pitfalls of previous liberal theologies and recognizing genuine differences among religious traditions at their stages of evolution. His concrete analyses would cast light in any Western or world survey course....
